

MARCH NEWS

The month started off with the continuation of Fair Lane Farms clinic with Hoka Thorn. Happy horses and riders left the clinic.

Amy judged 4 shows this month. First the Full Gallop event on March 8. Next she could be seen in the judges booth at the Stable View Event in Aiken. These 2 day one shows are at Aiken's newest event facility. Lastly another event at Full Gallop farm right here in Aiken.

Amy gave a clinic at Susan Todd's Hidden Acre Farm in Blythewood, SC. What a great group of participants. Amy looks forward to coming to the farm again soon.

Amy also traveled to participate in the mandatory judge's forum in Wellington, Florida. A great forum hosted by Gary Rockwell "O" judge. The first two days were about all the new rules. We had two days of live rides and tests. We went over the new 2015 tests. There was also a safe sport clinic as well as a freestyle clinic. A very educational weekend. Amy also got to spend the eves with her parents who live just 20 minutes from the showgrounds. She feels very fortunate to be able to share the time with them.

Our group participated in the March Aiken Dressage show. Eight riders went to show off their beloved steeds. Lots of blue ribbons and qualifying scores.

Amy has been actively going to Charleston to ride Diamond . She has 3 shows selected to hopefully earn her score for the Gold medal and scores for her “S”. Check back to see her progress.
